CHAP.	SECTION I— Introduction	PAGE
1	Human Blood Groups—What are they?	1
2	The Serological Laboratory and General Blood Grouping Procedure	13
SECTION II—The ABO Blood Group System
3	The ABO Blood Groups and Grouping Methods	25
4	ABO Grouping Sera—Selection and Preparation	35
5	Iso-immunisation to the Blood Group Antigens A and B	41
6	The ABO Sub-Groups	47
7	The Inheritance of the ABO Blood Groups	55
8	The Group Specific Substances A, B and H in Tissues and Body Fluids	61
SECTION III—The Rh Blood Group System
9	The Discovery of the Rh Blood Groups and Rh Typing Methods	68
10	Methods of Detection of Anti-D Antibodies	76
11	The various Rh Antigens with especial reference to the Fisher nomenclature and theory of inheritance	91
12	Rh Sub-Typing	102
13	Detection and Identification of Rh Antibodies, including Mixtures	114
14	Selection and Preparation of Rh Typing Sera	123
SECTION IV—Other Blood Group Systems
15	General Introduction to other Blood Group Systems	135
16	The MN and Ss Systems	143
17	The Kell, Duffy and Kidd Systems	155
18	The Lutheran, Lewis, P, I, Xg and further Blood Group Systems	161
19	Various Red Cell Agglutination Phenomena	172
SECTION V—Practical Applications of Blood Group Theory
20	Identification of Antibodies and Mixtures of Antibodies	177
21	The Choice of Blood for Transfusion and Direct Matching Methods	191
22	Emergency Transfusions	208
23	The Investigation of Hæmolytic Transfusion Reactions	218
24	Hæmolytic Disease of the Fœtus; Ætiology, Ante-natal Care, Serological Testing of Mother, Baby and Father	232
25	Hæmolytic Anæmias	255
26	Human Blood Groups in Relation to Genetics and Anthropology	267
27	The Collection and Testing of Donor Blood	276
28	The Forensic Application of Blood Groups	282
