

CONTENTS

Prologue

Learning: What Kind?	3
----------------------	---

part I

Freedom: Where the Action Is

Introduction to Part I	9
1. A Sixth Grade Teacher "Experiments"	11
2. A College Professor Gives Freedom Within Limits	29
3. My Way of Facilitating a Class	57

part II

Creating a Climate of Freedom

Introduction to Part II	101
4. The Interpersonal Relationship in the Facilitation of Learning	103
5. Methods of Building Freedom	129

part IIISome Assumptions

Introduction to Part III	149
6. Personal Thoughts on Teaching and Learning	151
7. Regarding Learning and Its Facilitation	157
8. Current Assumptions in Graduate Education: A Passionate Statement	169
9. A Revolutionary Program for Graduate Education	189
10. Some Thoughts About Educational Administration	205

part IVThe Philosophical and Value Ramifications

Introduction to Part IV	217
11. Being in Relationship	221
12. A Modern Approach to the Valuing Process	239
13. Freedom and Commitment	259
14. The Goal: The Fully Functioning Person	279

part VA Model for Revolution

Introduction to Part V	301
15. A Plan for Self-Directed Change in an Educational System	303

Epilogue

Self-Directed Educational Change in Action	327
--	-----

Bibliography	343
---------------------	-----

Index	355
--------------	-----